Torre de la Horadada is a seaside town, a district dependent on the municipality of Pilar de la Horadada, province of Alicante, Spain. Coastal town, which has recently developed thanks to tourism. It has all services, bars, restaurants, marina, medical center, pharmacy and shopping center. It owes its name to two factors: first, the 16th century watchtower; and the second, the place where said tower is located: Punta de la Horadada. Torre de la Horadada has several blue flag beaches. Among the beaches it is worth highlighting: Calas de Rocamar, Playa Jesuitas, Playa del Conde, Playa del Puerto, Playa de Las Villas, Playa de Las Higuericas.
