Casa India is a 3-bedroom, 1-bathroom home with real character, set on one of the oldest and most atmospheric streets in Lanjarón. It's full of original charm – and yes, it could use a little renovation, but that's part of what makes it such an opportunity.

Inside, you've got two kitchen-living areas, which offer great potential for flexible living – think guest space, rental options, or just a cozy spot to unwind. The layout has good bones, and the three bedrooms give you plenty of room to work with.

Upstairs, the roof terrace is the highlight. With views over the rooftops and the mountains beyond, it's easy to imagine this becoming your favorite spot – whether for morning coffee or evening wine.

Lanjaron is a peaceful spa town on the edge of the Alpujarras, known for its healing waters, mountain air, and friendly pace of life. Everything you need – shops, cafés, walking trails – is just a short stroll away.

Casa India is a bit of a project, but for someone with vision, it could be something really special. A traditional Andalusian home with space, charm, and lots of potential to make it your own.
