The villa consists of a bright and spacious lounge/dining room, a modern open plan American style kitchen, three bedrooms with fitted wardrobes, two bathrooms, electric blinds, air conditioning (hot/cold) throughout the property, domestic hot water (DHW) is also produced by the aerothermal heat pump, a large private landscaped garden with terrace and (optional) swimming pool, and off road parkin with internal parking for one or two cars, depending on the plot.

Your security, and that of your loved ones, is guaranteed by a fully fenced and enclosed resort with security and surveillance system, that also offers a social club for community use, with a large swimming pool, children's play area, gym room, a space for electric bicycles with recharging system, photovoltaic energy, and much more.

The silhouette of Mount Ponoch or Ponoig (1181m), the "sleeping lion" of Gabriel Miró, and the profile of the town with the tower of San Pedro church and the old cemetery, mark the visual impression of this attractive town, recreated by Gabriel Miró in his books: he had a summer house here, the Casa de Sigüenza (Sigüenza House), located at the start of the road that leads to Guadalest. Oscar Esplá and Benjamín Palencia, whose workshop has been preserved, also lived here.
