

Auberge à vendre dans La Taha, Granada

395.000€

The property comprises of 5 newly built, traditional Alpujarran style dwellings, all with slate roof, in need of finishing. The property once finished will be flexible in its use, suitable for holiday letting, creating a retreat or an alternative health centre. The owners are prepared to become joint investors in a viable project of this kind. The first house is comprised of a 72m² ground floor, a 103m² first floor and an 85m² patio. The second has a 70m² ground floor and a 90m² first floor as well as a 90m² patio. The third, has a 54m² ground floor, a 100m² first floor and an 84m² patio. The fourth has a 104m² ground floor, a 106m² first floor and a 85m² patio. The fifth has a 54m² ground floor, a 101m² first floor and an 84m² patio.

Outside, there is room for a swimming pool and 8 parking spaces which can be sold/rented individually.

Services

All mains services are connected. Broadband internet is available.

Location

The property is located in the small whitewashed village of Ferreñola, one of the most beautiful and picturesque Moorish villages of Granada province, at the foot of the Sierra Nevada. Ferreñola is one of seven villages making up the historic municipality of La Taha, with Pitres as its capital. It is possible to walk from the village to all of the other six. Many of the walking paths of the area pass through the village. The G142 route, which traverses the whole of the Alpujarras, offers varied and stunning landscapes, as well as other routes such as the newly signposted 'Ruta Medieval'. The village is known for its many artisan shops, potteries, art exhibitions and weavers. The historic city of Granada can be reached in just under 90 minutes. The coast is just an hour's drive away.

 0 chambres

 0 salles de bains

 863m² Taille de construction