We have building plots in different areas: Cañada del Trigo, Abanilla, Fortuna. &#13;&#13;

The district of Cañada del Trigo is located in the so-called Carche area, named for its proximity to the mountain range of the same name. In the lands that surround this population center, the vine crops are the ones that populate the landscape, but, if we go into the nearby Sierra del Carche, considered a Protected Natural Area, we find species of flora and fauna that proliferate in a vegetation that It is distinguished by the presence of thyme, crags, esparto, lavender, lavender or conifers such as pine.&#13;&#13;

Here you can also find a very rare species in the region such as bearberry, a bush that produces small edible red berries whose leaves are used in infusion as an astringent or disinfectant.&#13;&#13;

The most interesting fauna are birds of prey such as the eagle owl, the golden eagle, the peregrine falcon or the short-toed and booted eagles, and mammals such as the wild cat, foxes and wild boars.&#13;&#13;

The climatic conditions of the region, such as the average annual temperature, the lack of rainfall and the number of hours of sunshine per year, as well as the characteristics of the soil, limestone and poor in organic matter, make the cultivation of the vine favorable, being the wine activity the engine of the economy of Cañada del Trigo. In this district there is a wine cooperative and some wineries &#12;&#12;
