Cueva Rain Dancer Ranch in Puente Arriba (Benamaurel)

Fantastic rural property with two large, adjoining cave houses, for renovation, featuring spacious patios and over 2 hectares of land, surrounded by nature and farmland. It boasts panoramic views of the Jabalcón hill and the spectacular Castilléjar Badlands.

The facades of both caves are in partial states of reform. The cave to the left is semi-attached to an unformed cave. One cave has a concrete block facade that is mostly finished. The second cave has a whitewashed facade with the characteristic undulating roofline of the area. Above, is a stone structure, also for reform.

The property includes apple, plum, paraguayo (flat, donut) peach trees and 80 almond trees. Access is paved. There is a cleared area in front with space to park several vehicles. The property has ample outdoor space for a recreation area and pool.

This is a great opportunity for investors, ideal for developing a rural tourism project or a large family residence in a peaceful, impressive natural setting.

Interior of the House

The first cave has two entrances: one leads to a single room, and the other opens onto the main area, which features a spacious open plan for a kitchen-dining room. There are three more rooms. One of them has a light well where a skylight could be installed to take advantage of natural light.
