Higuera de Calatrava is surrounded by olive groves, a friendly little town between Porcuna and Martos in Jaén province, Andalucía, Spain. The house is furnished, very well kept so ready to move into. Located on a quiet street with plenty of parking, there is also a double garage / workshop accessed via a lane at the back of the property. This also has a large storage room underneath it. Enter the front door into the living room with a corner fireplace, dining area and on the left stairs up to the first floor. Ahead a hallway leads to the shower room on the left, a good size, recently refitted kitchen and a back door to a semi-covered patio area. Off this nicely tiled, shady patio is a large cave or wine cellar which keeps cool in summer and warmer in winter. The steps from this lower patio lead up to another patio area with a roof and access to one of the bedrooms. There is another level of patio with a built-in barbecue and a lemon and olive tree.
