Only two years ago the complete property which consists of a main building, a guest house, an indoor pool area and a garage was extensively renovated, including all electrical installation and the water pipes. The house was isolated with a layer of EPS which was covered with an additional layer of bricks.

Also a central heating system with the latest heat pump technology was installed throughout the complete building. Not to forget to mention the large covered and glassed former terrace which serves now as an extension of the main building and goes around almost half of the house fronts. Due to its massive roof structure and the installed heating system it could also be converted in any additional separate rooms.

The indoor pool which can be accessed both from the guest house and from the main building with its large southwest facing glass front is heated also via its own heating pump. In the pool area can also be found a shower, a toilet and an infrared sauna.

Beside the few steps up the entrance of the house it can be easily accessed also via a ramp.

A central air conditioning system is pre-installed in the main building, which just need to be connected. The guest house it is already equipped with its own air conditioning.

What it makes that house even more unique and which gives you a more spacious feeling is that there are no doors built inside the main building - it is indeed a "must-see" and "must-feel" house. You will definitely note that the owner thought on every little and technical detail by doing that renovation.

Main building: You enter the 234 m2 main building via the porche in the living area. On the left hand side you will find an eating area, a kitchen area and on the opposite side you enter the office area from where you get into the sleeping
