

Landa till salu i Aceña la Borrega, Cáceres

164.950€

For those who would like to buy an untouched ruin set in approx. 5 hectares land (12 acres) this may well be for you ! The stone house sits , more or less, in the centre of it's own land with spectacular views over the surrounding countryside. The ruin currently has 5 rooms, with doors to the front and has an easterly aspect. The front gives fine views of the hilltop town of Alburquerque , in the distance. An old bread oven could be renovated to provide you with fresh bread ! The house has a rural location, with lots of walks on the nearby lanes, and has its own private entrance. Although there are houses nearby , I believe this does not detract from its location. Electricity would be available from cables running over the land. This area is renowned for its wildlife , fine walks and beautiful countryside.
